Abstract. The article discusses changes of the symbolic map of Kyiv during the period of 2014–2017 caused by the Revolution of Dignity before and after the adoption of the set of laws on decommunization. The strategies, special cases and character of urban renaming were under the study, including examples of renaming that don't fall under these laws. The meanings of old and new urbanonymy (street names), texts of discussions flared up around this problem during the voting and other examples of public deliberation were analyzed. In the course of the reconstruction of discursive strategies, several basic positions were identified (local history, heroic-patriotic and decolonization). Using materials of the discussion called «Is Moskovsky (Moscow) Bridge an Enemy of Ukraine?», authors articulate the public need to expand the processes of decommunization by those of decolonization, and comprehend urban naming as an ideological weapon of different times.

Key words: decommunization, decolonialization, Kyiv, street names, urban renaming, public discussions, urban environment
